GOP Drafts 'Win Peace' Platform

By Ovid A. Martin

Chicago (AP) — A Republican foreign policy setting a just peace as its goal and offering hope of eventual freedom to enslaved peoples was outlined last night to the party's National Convention.

This could be accomplished, the Platform Committee said, within the framework of the United Nations and collective security agreements under which all bore fair shares of burdens, while at the same time serving the "enlightened" self-interest of the United States.

Its foreign policy, the committee said, would "wage peace and win it."

The committee, in a foreign policy plank to be submitted to the convention today along with a broad platform on domestic issues, issued a stinging indictment of the Truman administration, accusing it of squandering U.S. power and prestige and opening the door to Communist aggression.

The issue at the November election, the plank said, is whether the American people wish to continue in office "the party that has presided over a disastrous reversal of our fortunes and the loss of our hopes for a peaceful world."

In a platform plank dealing with the controversial issue of racial discrimination at home, the committee urged state action aimed at protecting rights of Negroes and other racial and religious groups. But it proposed supplemental federal action—particularly to oppose discrimination in the hiring and firing of workers.

This plank did not fully satisfy conflicting viewpoints of Northern and Southern delegates, who had waged a furious battle over wording of the plank.

Northern delegates wanted the GOP committed to a compulsory federal fair employment practices act. Southern delegates, who want no part of federal compulsion, expressed fear the committee plank opened the door to just that. There was talk of carrying this disagreement to the floor.

Although the committee approved the entire platform, only the two planks dealing with foreign policy and civil rights were made public last night, in advance of the presentation, of the whole document of the convention.

In the foreign field, the committee accused the Democrats of neglecting the interests of freedom-loving peoples in Asia, Africa, the Near East and Latin America, in concentrating on a program designed primarily to set up defenses against Communism in Europe.

The foreign policy plank was approved by both major candidates for the party's presidential nomination—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft—before being recommended to the convention by the committee.

It was designed as something of a compromise of the views of these two candidates.

Eisenhower has insisted that the GOP should continue to work collectively with other anti-Communist countries, but that it abandon the present administration policy of "containing" the Reds. He says a "positive" policy that offers hope of freedom to peoples under Communist rule is needed.

Taft, on the other hand, has said he would rely less on a policy of collective security and more on a strong air force to protect this country from aggression and to serve as a deterrent to Red movement against other countries.

The Resolutions Committee plank would pledge a policy of cooperating with friendly nations, with greater emphasis on the Far East which it said Stalin has long recognized as "the road to victory over the West."

Pennsylvania Delegation's Penchant For Putting Off Decision Causes Keystone To Miss The Boat; Dates Back To 1920 Meeting

By Leonard Randolph

During the past 32 years the Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican national convention has missed the boat so many times it may soon be known as the "wait that broke the political wagon down."

At party conventions attended by delegates from the Keystone State, a policy of "Let's wait and see" who seems likely to get the nomination has upset Pennsylvania's chances of being "in" on the business of president-making.

The pattern of boat-missing may be traced indirectly to the 1920 convention in Chicago when the party was almost evenly split between Gov. Frank Lowden of Illinois and Gen. Leonard Wood.

Pennsylvania's Gov. William Cameron Sproul, who held the State's votes as a "favorite son," refused to release his delegation to either of the main candidates. He was joined in this action by California's Hiram Johnson and New York's Nicholas Murray Butler, a former vice-presidential nominee (with William Howard Taft in 1912).

A fourth "favorite son"—Warren G. Harding—was also hanging on to his votes—and hoping.

When the convention adjourned for the night at 7 p.m. Friday, June 11, the situation was this: Wood—314½ to Gov. Lowden's 289 votes. Harding, at that time, had only 61½.

The next day Harding's strength began steadily increasing. On the 10th ballot he received 692½ votes—enough to make him the Republican nominee for president and, eventually, the election.

Pennsylvania's delegation, however, failed to play a decisive role in his nomination.

This pattern of "waiting just a little too long" was repeated again 20 years later at the convention in Philadelphia which nominated Wendell L. Wilkie.

(At the 1936 convention in Cleveland, Ohio, there was little maneuvering for the nomination. Alfred M. Landon, whose sunflower trademark had captured the imagination of the convention and succeeded in dwarfing the efforts of nearly all other aspirants, received the nomination and was defeated in the November election. Monroe County's delegate to that convention was Harry Q. Snyder.)

Four years later, however, at the Philadelphia conclave, attended by the late Dr. C. B. Rosenkrans, the Keystone delegation pulled a stall which eliminated it from the role of a powerful faction to the less desirable position of an echo crying "me-too."

Dr. Rosenkrans, the county chairman of the Republican party, attended the Philadelphia convention as an alternate.

The keynote speaker at that convention was Harold E. Stassen who was also serving as floor manager for Wilkie. The opening sessions were markedly calm and what few squabbles appeared were apparently easily settled.

The three principal candidates for the nomination were Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Sen. Robert Taft and Wilkie. It was an almost even split proposition on the first ballot—Dewey had 360, Taft 189 and Wilkie 105.

A second, third and fourth ballot altered the situation slightly, mostly in a decrease in Dewey delegates.

On the fifth ballot Dewey's power seemed to collapse—he was down to a mere 57 votes. Taft meanwhile was up to 377. The Wilkie bandwagon, with 429 votes, had really begun to roll.

It was at this point that a tremendous demonstration from the gallery began. The convention hall was filled with shouts and chants of "We want Wilkie."

The party bosses decided it was time to talk things over. Pennsylvania recessed to a point just off the convention floor for a delegate caucus.

It was unfortunate for the Keystone slate that the proper psychological moment arrived while it was in discussion.

Pennsylvania and Michigan (with 110 votes combined) held the power to "make or break" the nomination.

Michigan had, up to that time, continued to pledge its votes to favorite son Arthur Vandenberg. Pennsylvania, too, had been blessed with a "favorite son"—Gov. Arthur James—who was clinging to the slim chance he might have as a dark horse.

Shortly after the Pennsylvania delegation began its caucus, the sixth ballot also began.

Michigan chose that moment to drop its bombshell—the 38 delegates from the midwest were released from their pledge to Vandenberg. 35 of the 38 joined the Wilkie movement and the switch was on.

B. K. Williams Votes Against Eisenhower

Convention Hall, Chicago—Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania announced to the Republican National Convention early today that 51 members of the Keystone State delegation would vote for the nomination of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for president.

Fine added that 16 delegates would cast their ballots for Sen. Robert A. Taft and three would vote for Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The Governor said that he previously had leaned toward Taft, but now feels that Eisenhower's war record and his stand on key issues of the day best fit him for the job as president.

Fine thus lines up with Sen. James J. Duff (R-Pa.) as a supporter of Eisenhower. Pennsylvania's other U.S. senator, Edward Martin, has endorsed Taft.

The Eisenhower bandwagon rolled down the nomination trail at a rapid clip last night to bring home the hotly-contested Georgia delegation on the floor of the Republican national convention.

Ike delegates from Georgia were seated by a vote of 607 to 531.

The Pennsylvania delegation voted for accepting the minority report on Georgia. B. J. Williams, of Monroe County, voted with the Taft forces against the motion. Kenneth Kressler, Northampton County, the other 15th District delegate, voted for the motion.

Debate on the seating of Georgia delegates was brought up on the convention floor after the Credentials Committee had authorized a pro-Taft delegation earlier in the day.

As had been expected, Ike delegates challenged the seating of the Taftites immediately following the committee announcement.

One of the hottest points in a heated period of debate was the withdrawal of the Pennsylvania delegation from the floor by Gov. John S. Fine.

Fine called the delegates off the floor and into a caucus after a motion for recess by Michigan's Arthur Summerfield had been denied by the convention.

Summerfield and Fine had both announced yesterday afternoon that their delegates would caucus immediately after the report of the Credentials Committee.

It was the floor's refusal to allow a recess which made Fine "fighting mad" in the words of a member of his party and, during the caucus, to throw his support openly behind the Eisenhower movement.

When Pennsylvania came back to the floor, Fine announced the group would vote 57 for Eisenhower and 13 for Taft.

It was this heavy Pennsylvania support, combined with the 32 Michigan votes (of a possible 46) for Ike, which threw the general's machine into the upper brackets.

Fine called the Pennsylvania group off the floor in direct opposition to temporary chairman Walter Hallahan.

Oregon had just slapped its 18 votes down on the Ike side, leaving none for the Taft.

"Pennsylvania . . . 70 votes," said the chairman.

Gov. Fine took the mike. "Before Pennsylvania votes," came his hoarse voice, "I think we are entitled to say one or two words about this situation."

"Out of order," retorted chairman Hallahan.

"I asked for a 45-minute recess . . . Fine continued.

"You are out of order!" the chair insisted sharply.

"—for 45 minutes—" Fine tried to continue.

"The roll is being called. Does Pennsylvania wish to pass?"

There was a pause. Then Fine's voice came harshly. "Pennsylvania will NEVER pass! Pennsylvania votes 57 yes . . . and 13 no!"

Up rose G. Mason Owlett, former Grundy strongman. He called for a poll of the Pennsylvania delegates.

Fine protested again. He said in an emotion-strangled voice that he didn't know how his delegation was going to vote.

"This is not due to the chairman of the delegation," he shouted from the floor. "It is due to the breach of an agreement."

The delegates rose one after the other and shouted their vote.

The result: 52 yes, and 18 no.

CONVENTION DEALS TAFT HEAVY BLOW

Convention Hall, Chicago (AP) — The Republican National Convention early this morning adopted the minority report on the seating of 38 Texas delegates—33 of whom favor the nomination of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for President. Five are reported for Taft.

Action was taken by unanimous voice vote before the convention adjourned until 1 p.m. (EDT) today.

The motion for a unanimous vote came from a pro-Taft delegate from Iowa.

The majority report of the Credentials Committee had recommended seating 22 Taft delegates and 16 Eisenhower delegates.

By Douglas R. Cornell

Convention Hall, Chicago (AP) — The Republican National Convention, sitting as a gigantic, strife-racked jury, last night seated a pro-Eisenhower Georgia delegation in a decision that could determine the outcome of the whole Taft-Eisenhower fight for the presidential nomination.

The vote—607 to 531—was a powerful and possibly deadly blow to the presidential hopes of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. It sent a frenzy of joy through the camp of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The Eisenhower victory in the contest for Georgia's delegation made the lineup of delegates, as tabulated by The Associated Press, stand as follows:

Taft 510.
Eisenhower 470.
Others 108.
Uncommitted 118.
Needed to nominate 604.

It was a strange jury of frantic partisans that sat in judgment in the massive struggle. Boos and cheers from the delegates rolled through this vast amphitheater at the edge of the Chicago stockyards.

There was at least one fist fight on the floor. That was after Sen. Everett Dirksen, pro-Taft spellbinder from Illinois, pointed a finger at Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and implored that Eisenhower leader to "re-examine your heart."

The big issue: Whether 17 delegates solidly for Taft or 17 all-out for Eisenhower should be seated.

Leading up to the Georgia battle, the convention seated an 18-vote Florida delegation heavily weighted for the Ohio senator. There was no fuss about that—not even a roll-call vote.

Waiting behind Georgia for decision was the case of how Texas' 38 votes should be divided.

The Taft forces—with the backing of a majority of the convention's Credentials Committee and the GOP National Committee—wanted them 22 for Taft and 16 for Eisenhower.

Eisenhower forces were taking the battle to the floor with a bid to get 33 of the Texans and give Taft only five.

Earlier in the day, four miles away in a downtown hotel, Taft had tossed 11 Louisiana votes to Eisenhower in a ticklish strategic maneuver that provided the backdrop for last night's climactic showdown.

While delegates tapped toes and marked time listening to party orators in Convention Hall, Taft forces came out of a Credentials Committee session with two decisions just the way they wanted them.

The committee handed 13 disputed Louisiana delegate seats to Eisenhower, making a net gain of 11 for him. Then it divided 38 Texas delegates 22 for the senator, 16 for the general.

Voting of the delegates on the Georgia issue was challenged several times during the reports by their leaders. (Convention rules allow a challenge by any voting member of the delegation.)

The biggest audience reaction to any challenge occurred when a delegate from New York asked for a poll of all 96 votes. (The vote had been split 52 for Ike; 4 for Taft. When the polling was completed, it remained the same.)

The New York delegation, predominantly controlled by Gov. Dewey, threw its weight behind the pro-Ike movement to the tune of 92 votes. The remaining four went to Taft.

New Jersey delegates, whose chairman, Gov. Driscoll, has been an Ike supporter from the beginning, also went the way of the general—32 to 6.

California also ended up in the Convention Schedule Fourth Day

Chicago (AP) — Delegate contests and difficulties in hammering out a platform have thrown the Republican National Convention far off schedule.

Assuming those matters are cleared up during the night, the tentative program for the fourth day sessions may go about like this:

Morning session: 12:30 p.m. (EDT).

Vote on approval of party platform.

Rollcall of states for nominations for president.

Nominations for the office of president.

Rollcall of states for selection of a nominee for president.

Addresses: Mrs. Gladys E. Heinrich Knowles, national committee-woman from Montana; Rep. Albert P. Morano of Connecticut.

Rollcall of states for nominations for vice president.

Nominations for the office of vice president.

Rollcall of states for selection of a nominee for vice president.

Waring's Car In Accident At East Rutherford

East Rutherford, N.J. — Band-leader Fred Waring, of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., was involved last night in a Route 5-3 accident involving two cars and a bus.

Police said Waring skidded and lost control of his car which jumped a center safety isle and crashed head-on with a station wagon in which Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Meister of Weehawken and their children were riding.

Waring's car was thrown back on the safety island and while still spinning around, struck a bus.

Hackensack Hospital authorities said Mrs. Meister was the only one who suffered more than minor injuries.

Waring left by plane shortly after the accident for the Republican convention in Chicago. His companion, Richard Farley, assistant golf pro at Shawnee, went on to New York and is due back in Shawnee today.

Eisenhower camp — 62 for and 8 against.

Only one major delegation threw its support wholeheartedly behind the Taft machine. This was Illinois, with 60 votes, where delegates polled only one for the general and gave the remaining 59 to Taft. Ohio's 56 votes all went to favor its son Taft.

Hoover Comes Out For Taft For President

Chicago (AP) — Taft headquarters made public last night a statement by Herbert Hoover endorsing Sen. Robert A. Taft for President.

The statement said: "I have not for many years taken public part in convention choice of candidates. But on this occasion, when the issues are so vital to our country, my conscience demands that I speak out.

"I favor Sen. Taft, whom I have known since he was associated with me in World War I.

"Sen. Taft has long proved his forthrightness, integrity and absolute devotion to public interest, and he has had long experience in government.

"His leadership in the Senate has provided the Republican party with a fighting opposition to the currents of collectivism in the country.

"This convention meets not only to nominate a candidate, but to save America. I have been deeply distressed at the acrimonious discussion in the convention.

"I can only hope that that shall cease for the sake of the future of our party and the country."

Power Line Knocked Out Of Service

A large section of Stroudsburg and Arlington Heights was without electrical service early today as the result of an accident on Second Street.

A Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. spokesman said a truck backed into a pole on Second St., knocking out a 4,000-volt line and also putting a cable and messenger line of the Bell Telephone Co. out of commission.

The power interruption occurred about 1 a. m. Service was restored in part of the territory at 2:25 a. m. and emergency crews continued working to complete the job.

River Yields Hundreds Of Dead Fish

Hundreds of fish of all species were found dead in the Delaware River yesterday by Ralph Singer, Bloomingrove, fish warden.

The area in which the fish were discovered stretches from Bushkill on up past Masthope in Lackawaxen Township, Pike County, Singer said.

Only species not found among the common and game fish which succumbed were pike.

Singer was assisted in his investigation by a number of biological and sanitation experts.

"There's no positive proof of the cause," Singer said.

The fish found had been dead between one and two weeks, Singer said. They were too deteriorated to permit analysis of the substance which killed them.

Evidently, the batch all were killed about the same time. Since that time, however, other fish have been caught in good shape.

Yesterday's investigation showed the river was clean.

$2 Million Fire Levels Movie Sets

Burbank, Calif. (AP) — A wind-swept fire—perhaps the work of an arsonist—burned more than 20 acres of the Warner Brothers studio backlot yesterday destroying a dozen sets and large storage sheds.

A studio spokesman said a preliminary estimate indicated damage might run more than two million dollars—or nearly twice as much as the May 16 fire at the same studio.

The flames roared through two New York sets, and others representing streets in San Francisco, Canada and France. It destroyed several sheds 1,000 feet long and two stories high, containing scenery and other props.

Lehigh Valley Expects Flood

Before 8 a.m. today the Lehigh River is expected to reach or go slightly higher than flood stage in the Lehighen-Weisport-Bethlehem-Allentown area.

That was the warning issued by the State Weather Bureau about midnight last night.

In Monroe County, although the heaviest local rainfall in the State was reported (Mount Pocono—five and four tenths inches), the down-pour appeared to have less serious effects—at least for the time being.

The Joint Toll Bridge Commission at the Delaware River Bridge at Milford said the river had been checked at 10 p.m.—and was slightly lower than it had been during the morning.

HST 'Fears' Taft To Lose

Washington (AP) — President Truman voiced mock fear yesterday that his "favorite candidate," Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, might be defeated for the Republican presidential nomination.

The President tore himself away from his television set at the White House, where he had been watching proceedings of the Republican National Convention, to make a hurried trip to the Washington Airport. There he met Secretary of State Acheson on his return from a European tour and a trip to Brazil.

Talking with the State Department officials as he awaited Acheson's arrival, he grinningly told them:

"I'm worried. It looks like my favorite candidate is going to get beat."

Sen. Kerr Chides GOP For 'Brawl'

By The Associated Press

Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma said yesterday the Taft-Eisenhower battle at the Republican National Convention in Chicago is "disgusting to the American people."

He called it a brawl.

Kerr, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, issued a statement in Washington, D. C., sounding a plea for nationwide unity instead of dissension in this election year.

Nova Sportswear Employs 50 Girls At Brodheadsville

The forty-second of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. One of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James R. Gaffney
National advertised Ship 'N Shore blouses are being completed in Monroe County by Nova Sportswear Co. in Brodheadsville.

Leading women's publications, newspapers, radio and television mediums all share in publicizing this colorful women's blouse but few area residents are aware that one of the final operations goes on right here.

Owned by Angelo and Anthony Zanette, brothers, and Ralph Tolatta, the Brodheadsville mill employs 50 girls and contributes between $2200 and $2500 weekly in salaries.

Just back from vacation, the employees this week started their sewing machines and again are in full production. The blouses are cut at Anthony Zanette's mill in Pen Argyl, or at the mother plant of Susquehanna Waist Co. in Upland, Pa. and are shipped to Brodheadsville.

Similar operations take place in various other mills in this section but the Brodheadsville factory plays a major role in the flow of production to every state in the nation and to many foreign lands.

After the blouses are assembled here they are forwarded to Upland where they are pressed and packaged for delivery to stores.

Operation at the Brodheadsville plant consists of sewing and buttonholing but the constant demand for the product is responsible for the steady employment and comparatively large force of employees.

Blouses from size 30 to 40 are made here and, on occasions, as orders demand, children's blouses also are finished.

Cotton tailored blouses are Ship 'N Shore's specialty and their highly colorful material captures the enviable eye of fashionable women everywhere. Ship 'N Shore has gained a wide reputation for its style, and the workmanship at this Brodheadsville plant lives up to the reputation the firm has established over the years it has been in existence.

Nova Sportswear first began operations here two years ago in October and their presence has proved a boon to the small community and is aiding economically in stabilizing Monroe County.

The plant is one of many in this region, considered by many as the "hub" of the blouse world. And their over-all annual payroll contribution, set by some officials in the industry as $8 million, is evidence alone of the vastness by which the blouse mills are aiding the communities in which they are located. Officials of many plants also estimate the yearly out-put for the region, within 20 miles of Stroudsburg, as about 50,000 dozen blouses.

Angelo Zanette is superintendent.

Patterson-Kelley Co. Lets Contract For Construction Of Another New Building

In its program of plant expansion, the Patterson-Kelley Co. of East Stroudsburg has let a contract for the construction of a steel and concrete block building covering a 50 by 200 foot area, officials announced last night. It will adjoin a 50 by 100 foot building of like construction recently completed for the fabrication of P-K twin shell blenders, the company's newest development in its process equipment, and a wholly new concept in the mixing of dry ingredients.

The new building, to be finished in the Fall, will enlarge the company's facilities for the fabrication of heat exchangers, as well as from coolers and condensers used in large commercial air conditioning installations throughout the United States and abroad.

When fully equipped this building will represent an investment of approximately $200,000. It is expected to alleviate present conditions in a large section of the main plant where the hot water storage heaters are produced that have been the company's leading product since 1880.

Contract for the new construction was given to Slutter & Fazio of Stroudsburg who built the adjoining blender plant and who are now finishing another P-K structure which, although small in size, is nevertheless significant in the company's expansion program.

As a new housing for the outdoor power transformers, it will enable the shop to transfer its overhead power lines underground, making room for eventual further plant expansion.

Three-Cent U. S. Stamp To Honor Newspaper Boys

Washington (AP) — The Post-office Department yesterday announced the design for the three-cent commemorative stamp honoring newspaper boys. It will go on sale at Philadelphia October 4. The day has been designated as Newspaper Boys' Day, and the International Circulation Managers Association and regional circulations managers will be meeting in Philadelphia at that time. The stamp, in special delivery size, will show at one side a newspaper boy delivering his papers and at the other a torch held by a human hand, symbolizing free enterprise.

The stamp will bear the legend: "In recognition of the important service rendered their communities and their nation by America's newspaper boys." The youngsters' carrier bag bears the words: "Busy Boys—Better Boys."

Among America's Finest

America's finest athletes departed from New York yesterday for Helsinki, Finland, to carry this country's banner in the Olympic games that begin on July 19.

Pennsylvania can be justifiably proud that two of their star athletes have been chosen to compete in these important international games. Miss Janet Dicks, 19-year-old Le Moyne, Pa. weight star and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College sophomore, and Maj. John Russell of New Cumberland, a member of the U.S. equestrian team, were among those given a hearty sendoff at New York's city hall.

The group of young men and women who will represent the United States this year is as splendid a collection of athletes as has ever been sent into competition by this country. We can be certain of one thing—that our athletes will give a good account of themselves and live up to the fine tradition of others who have gone before them. They will display the same fine fighting spirit that has carried America to victory in many a past Olympic test.

The fine sportsmanship displayed by our athletes may be an inspiration to the Soviet competitors, if their Russian mentors don't keep them fenced off from the other athletes. And win or lose, our young men and women know that they will be given credit for doing their best, and need not worry that they will be dispatched to slave camps for letting their country down. Russian athletes can't be as sure of that. They've got to win, or else.

Tests for Teachers

It's a good idea to make the teachers in driving schools take examinations and road tests, as the State now is doing.

Safety experts have found, through experience with high school driver training programs, that a person's first driving habits stick with him for a long time.

He can learn good habits, which should eventually make him an expert driver, or he can learn slipshod methods that could get him into serious trouble.

There were indications that some of the driving schools were pretty lax in their methods, so the State Legislature acted to correct the situation.

After all the schools get a going over, and the competent ones are licensed, a new driver can "go to school" with confidence.

Red Hams

The Brooklyn dockworkers who refused to unload a cargo of Polish hams chose the wrong way to express their dislike of Communism.

However, this country can do without Polish hams. We produce plenty of hams here, and anyone who prefers imported ones can find Danish, Dutch and German hams in the markets. By buying them he can be sure his money is not going to help our enemies.

It shouldn't require a union demonstration to show American businessmen that buying goods from behind the Iron Curtain is unpopular as well as poor business.

If you go in for reminiscing.
Dear,
When nights are long and boredom has its way,
I hope the loveliest lures will reappear,
The brightest magic of another day.
A bus ride on an Autumn afternoon...
A tiny Inn that welcomed us as friends.
The overtones of some enchanted tune...
The beauty of the town as night descends.

Yes, these are worth a moment of your time.
When life resolved around a scented note,
When all the breathless moments we made rhyme.
Were poetry that both our hearts could quote.

If you go in for reminiscing.
Sweet...
I lay these lovely fragments at your feet?

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

General Douglas MacArthur
Chicago, July 8—It is impossible to ignore the fact that Gen. Douglas MacArthur is emerging as a likely substitute choice of this Republican Convention. He is avowedly supporting Sen. Robert A. Taft and unless released by Taft, he will not be available for the nomination. This is clearly understood on all sides.

On the other hand, many of the delegations which joined to stop Taft from getting the nomination on the first ballot are now faced with the possibility of Eisenhower on the first ballot, which they equally do not want. The Eisenhower management is putting pressure on the lesser candidates, particularly Gov. Warren of California, to release their delegates on an early ballot, possibly the second. As of today, there is no evidence that this can be done.

In some ways, this is a curious situation. Gov. Warren and Harold Stassen are playing for place. Each believes that if there are at least three ballots, neither Taft nor Eisenhower can be nominated. Their task, therefore, is so to manipulate events that no one is nominated on the first ballot.

By depriving Sen. Taft, even if only temporarily, of 68 votes because of the Langle resolution, they have shoved him up as to the possibility of a first ballot nomination. However, these delegates, or part of them, may be restored to Taft either by the Credentials Committee or the Convention.

The Taft organization remained optimistic as of Tuesday, they believing that they will have acclamations, some of which came from unexpected sources. This development is related to the wish of several state leaders that a stampede to any one candidate be avoided.

Some delegates, although favorably disposed to Taft, voted for the Langle resolution, which has done his candidacy some harm, because they desired what they call a fair convention with no one bossing the show. As much as there was objection to a Taft steamroller, so is there objection to an Eisenhower steamroller. This is an extraordinarily independent convention and strongly antagonistic to being bossed.

This attitude appears most interestingly in the current movement toward Gen. MacArthur. Some say that should MacArthur become a candidate, he could only take votes from Taft; it is suggested that the Eisenhower delegates are fanatically bound to him. Naturally each side seeks to give the impression of invincibility.

It is often customary, in this profession, to make categorical statements as though they were facts. Actually, no reporter can canvass the 1,206 delegates and the equal number of alternates here. But I have spoken to enough delegates, governors of states, and senators to be able to report that should the MacArthur candidacy develop, it would gain from both the Taft and Eisenhower sides. The Eisenhower hard core is no harder than the Taft hard core.

It has been widely reported here that offers have been made to Gen. MacArthur. I know that, as of today, no offers of any nature have been made to MacArthur by the managers of either side. The rumors on that score were the inevitable result of MacArthur's magnificent keynote speech.

MacArthur's popularity is enormous. His support of Taft has helped the Taft candidacy. His speech on Monday night was electrifying. Delegates who are annoyed at the methods of the managers of candidates relished the opportunity to cheer and exult, and they did.

Some of the die-hard Eisenhower contingent, particularly among New Yorkers, tried to play down the effects of the MacArthur speech. Their comments were like playing down the glories of an electric storm at sea. One such person commented on the long sentences, which sounded like criticizing Shakespeare for using Elizabethan English.

MacArthur's indirect but fully understood criticism of Eisenhower's conduct during the war, his references to prisoners of war, his statement, "... We deliberately withdrew our armies from thousands of square miles of hard-won territory, permitting the advance of Soviet forces to the west to plant the Red flag of Communism on the ramparts of Berlin, Vienna and Prague, capitals of western civilization" drew such applause as had not often been heard in conventions and nobody misunderstood what he meant. He hit out at Roosevelt, Truman, the Pentagon, Eisenhower, Marshall and Acheson without mentioning a name. And nobody misunderstood.

MacArthur could take this rampart, were he so minded. At present, he supports Taft.

Try And Stop Me

Oscar Levant's eight-year-old daughter, Lorna, hears the names of famous movie personages used in casual conversation at all hours of the day. Small wonder that when she saw a pair of twin boys dressed exactly alike, in a carriage in front of the Hampshire House, she exclaimed brightly, "Look, Daddy! The Warner Brothers!"

A Hollywood agent spent his vacation at a small inn in Vermont. The innkeeper reported later, "Mr. So-and-So was very fond of telling us what an honorable fellow he was. But the louder he talked of his honor, the faster we counted out spoons."

It is estimated that about 40 billion people have lived in the world since the beginning of the Christian era.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Chicago, July 8—The "no deal" candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, is busy making political deals with convention delegates all over Chicago.

His two major ones, the selections of Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire as his floor manager, and Gov. Theodore McKelvin of Maryland for the nominating speech, created little more than a yawn in the headquarters of Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Neither McKelvin nor Adams has many delegates to deliver to Eisenhower that are not already on the General's list. The two top posts are considered strategic convention weapons. When the general's managers finally got around to using them, however, there was a noticeable lack of eagerness for the jobs.

McKelvin, the convention's gadfly, released his delegates today. He announced that 19 of Maryland's 24 delegates are for Ike, the other five for Taft. His selection for the nominating speech is therefore interpreted as a move to help him hang onto the Eisenhower backers, rather than as a bribe to persuade the five to desert Taft.

Meanwhile Ike's campaign managers are crowing less about their convention victory over Taft on the rules change issue as they concentrate on strategy to block the seating of contested delegates. Tomorrow's session will be devoted to a floor fight over Texas, Louisiana, Georgia and Florida.

In the cold light of the day after, the general's first floor fight victory stands up as something less than decisive. An off-the-record Taft campaign manager, one of Taft's campaign managers, has generally deflated Ike's victory claims.

Coleman privately listed Taft's first ballot strength at 537. The Ohio senator, on the rules change issue, got 548 votes. A state-by-state analysis, however, reveals that Taft lost only seven delegates pledged to him on the nomination, while gaining 45 delegates who were not counted in Taft's corner in Coleman's tabulation.

In addition, Coleman has not listed Michigan, Pennsylvania or California in the Taft tabulation of 557. He has strength in all three states that will show up in the roll calls on seating contested delegations tomorrow.

Deliberations of the credentials committee have been open to press, radio and television, as they will be, of course, when the fight starts on the convention floor tomorrow. Most delegates are likely to wonder what all the previous shouting was about when they assemble to take part in the debate and roll calls.

There never was any doubt about all convention delegates getting a chance to hear the arguments, although Eisenhower's managers spent thousands of dollars informing delegates that Taft was robbing them of their birthrights. If he was, tomorrow will restore them and they can make their decisions untroubled by phony charges of highway robbery.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Eisenhower's campaign manager, knows that tomorrow is the real test of what he has in the way of Eisenhower strength. The expensive propaganda ballyhoo, the waiting on the wall and the days of shouting invective are behind. This is the payoff. Lodge has nothing now but his list of pledged delegates who are going to vote with him against the decisions favorable to Taft that emerge from the credentials committee.

The convention chairman is expected to make the same kind of ruling on demonstrations that was made Monday. Any time taken up in demonstrations against a roll call vote is deducted from the time allotted for speakers to present their arguments. It worked Monday.

Without his favorite toys, Lodge is certain to become frustrated if the roll calls go against him. If he does, his only recourse will be to take his beating or walk out. It would be wise to keep one aide cleared tomorrow for the general's campaign manager and any followers foolish enough to quit in the middle of the ball game.

STONE AGE VS GAS AGE

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

Even the best card player cannot do much unless he has a good hand. But if he has what he can't do to his opponents? According to the latest statistics there are now 2,549,714 employees on the government pay roll.

In April alone 10,635 more were added.

Just imagine what those 2,549,714 can do in an election—even if everyone of them only votes once!

However, this column was going to be on an entirely different subject.

It was to be at least a partial answer to the question a good many youngsters who graduated from school this last month are asking themselves.

"What will I be doing ten years from today?"

In 1942 the graduates from authorities at P. T. Barnum and George M. Cohan: That if you are in any business—dependent on being in the public eye—almost any publicity is good... "Just print the name right!" echoed a listener... "Every knock's a boost!" said another... "When they start to knock you," added a third, "it's a sure sign you've got them worried!"... "But don't forget Wilson Minter's warning to thieves," cautioned George Solotareff, "Never Get Rich In The Limelight!"

Midtown Melodrama: Variety editor Abel Green and his wife have such a problem... They live in a mid-50s penthouse and the landlord (hisss!) plans to turn the building into a co-op... This means the other tenants could use the roof and so the Greens are practically being dispossessed—since they "wouldn't think of such a thing!"... It appears their Boston Terrier ("Skeeta," age 8) has the run-of-the-roof, which has special bushes, hydrants, etc., and Skeeta has never been on any street!... So you can imagine the Green's plight... Not only must they find an acceptable and exclusive penthouse—but when they move they must pacify "Skeeta" when he wonders "What the Hell's Goin' On Around Here?"

The girl who was voted "most likely to succeed" is teaching music at Hunter College. The one chosen as "most dependable" is a psychiatric social worker. The "most athletic" is athletic director at Hunter High. One is a WAC sergeant and there are many number of teachers, bookkeepers, librarians, secretaries, clerks and social workers among them. There are also a few "journalists" and a model.

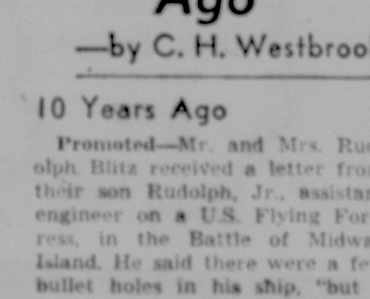

The girl voted "the prettiest," Mrs. Norma Jones Bartz, married a West Point valetictorian while she was in college and has lived on 37 Army bases since. Her husband is now stationed in England and they have three children.

In my opinion the survey is just about average. The girls with "more than average expectancy of success" have done no better and no worse than the "average" American girl graduating from any other high school.

In other words—The general's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin.

10 Years 20 The Once Over

—by C. H. Westbrook

Promoted—Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Bliz received a letter from their son Rudolph, Jr., assistant engineer on a U.S. Flying Fortress, in the Battle of Midway Island. He said there were a few bullet holes in his ship, "but a few will be telling Davy Jones about that." Rudolph was promoted to the rank of corporal.

Mission Society—The MS of E. S. Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Eli Travis. Mrs. Renninger, president of Lehigh Presbytery Missionary group, reported on Atlantic City conference. With active parts in the gathering were Mrs. Stowits, Mrs. G. A. Hulbert and Mrs. A. A. Holbrook.

C. E.—Young people of Salem Reformed Church, Gilbert, organized a Christian Endeavor Society. Rev. Klingaman appointed these officers: Mary Shiffer, Clark Shupp, Jean Trach, Leon Shiffer, Madelyn Arnold, Elsie Borden and Mattie Klingaman.

Shooting Stars—A meteorite is now thought to have caused the terrific explosion on Godfrey's Ridge Tuesday night. William Quick, son of Mrs. August Quick, is said to have found the site of the blast.

In N. J.—Mrs. R. A. Garley, Stroudsburg, is spending a few days with friends in Hope, N. J.

Car Fire—A Chevrolet coach was damaged by fire and $18 in cash burned near Foxtown Hill road. Samuel Plattenburg and two sons aided in extinguishing the fire caused by a "short" on the dome light.

Old Church—Constable N. R. Nae and family and other Stroudsburg folks attended a service at a 100-year-old Episcopal Church at Hope, N. J., which possesses the original pipe organ used at Trinity Church, N.Y.C., and presented to that church by Queen Anne of England.

Five of the 1942 students have become doctors in the ten years they have elapsed.

One girl is a practicing attorney; a few have become engineers; chemists and geologists.

A large number of the graduates—as a matter of fact, most of them—are married and combine home life with their profession or business.

One, Mrs. Gloria White Bell, is not only raising three sons but also 17,000 chickens on their poultry farm. Her husband helps, of course.

Mrs. Gertrude Houston Watt, mother of a 5-year-old girl, is a detective on the narcotics squad of the New York City police.

The girl who was voted "most likely to succeed" is teaching music at Hunter College. The one chosen as "most dependable" is a psychiatric social worker. The "most athletic" is athletic director at Hunter High. One is a WAC sergeant and there are many number of teachers, bookkeepers, librarians, secretaries, clerks and social workers among them. There are also a few "journalists" and a model.

The girl voted "the prettiest," Mrs. Norma Jones Bartz, married a West Point valetictorian while she was in college and has lived on 37 Army bases since. Her husband is now stationed in England and they have three children.

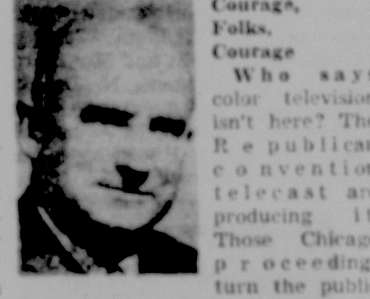

In my opinion the survey is just about average. The girls with "more than average expectancy of success" have done no better and no worse than the "average" American girl graduating from any other high school.

In other words—The general's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin.

How exciting! To be awakened every morning by the shimmering, silver notes of a trumpet!

Hollywood

—by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—So they tell me—Bing Crosby, asked whether he prefers the singing or the acting part of movie-making: "I don't like any part. I just like it when they say, 'Supper time!'"

Irene Dunne, on looking at television: "There's a great danger of sticking at home. Of not getting out and mingling with people. I hate teas and cocktail parties. But if I never made an effort to get out with my friends, how dull life would be!"

Lauritz Melchior, of cry-singer, Johnnie Ray: "An act more than art."

Dorothy Lamour, when she heard that a herd of sheep had done a scene 15 times for the current Bob and Bing movie, "The Road to Bali": "They'll be counting Hopps and Croys all night."

Quickies: John Wayne may not be superstitious. But if he's seen on a match he'll blow it out an day. "Oh, I'm so sorry!"... Don Taylor is simply agog over his new 7-year Paramount contract. 70 Fresh Air Children Start Two-Week Vacations Here

Pocono Region Homes Welcome New York Tots

V (for vacation) Day arrived spectacularly at 12:21 yesterday afternoon for 72 troops from the metropolitan district as they came ashore in East Stroudsburg and descended jubilantly on Stroudsburg High School.

The invasion marked the fourth landing here of the New York Herald Tribune's Fresh Air Fund program to afford youngsters from the city two weeks of leisure and experience for their "little black book."

Jupiter Pluvius intervened intermittently here but spared the youngsters the havoc as they encountered in the city.

Stepping from the Phoebe Snow at the DL&W Railroad station they were escorted to two waiting buses of the Delaware Valley Transportation Co. and whisked into the interior to the natives whom they are now conquering with affection.

Two-gun Charley surveyed the situation bewildered as he touched the strange land. But his tenement neighbor, Sally, considered the occupation strictly as a maneuver she had experienced the "grip" two years ago and knew the arms that awaited her fired only friendliness and companionship.

Mrs. Helene Kolenkiewicz guarded her troops on the trip here. Her daughters, Marie and Harriet were in the consignment destined for a Friendly Town host. "The children were well behaved on the train," Mrs. Kolenkiewicz said. She returned to the city last night.

Greeting the invaders at the station were Mrs. John Wilson, chairman of the local Fresh Air committee, Mrs. Earl Miller, Mrs. W. E. Frisbie, Mrs. Walter Caulfield, Mrs. H. T. Slaboski and Miss Carolyn Brown.

Embarking from the buses the group was divided, the boys escorted by Boy Scouts Miles Kirkhuff II, Bill Kregley and Bob Haigh and the girls directed by Girl Scouts Bonnie Renninger, Patsy Dodson and Carol Willhoite. Supervising the entrance to the school were Mrs. John Stanford, Mrs. Roy Houser and Mrs. Thomas P. Shoemaker.

After "sprucing up" to meet their Friendly Town hosts, the youngsters entered the huge gymnasium as their benefactors eagerly watched the arrival.

Duffel bags lined the bleachers in the school gymnasium as the gun toting lads and doll squeezing ladies mustered for the refreshments provided them by the contingent of welcoming natives. Mrs. Glen Lowry, Mrs. William Gordon and Mrs. Edward Hess were assisted by others in serving the children. Cookies were supplied by the local Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. store and milk was provided by Penn Dairies as the youngsters awaited the word to advance and be recognized.

Joe Webster of station WVFO, signalling for the commencement of salutations explained that 76 children were expected to arrive but the Herald Tribune had notified the local leaders at least four were taken ill and could not join the convoy. He noted there would be disappointments, but also asked families to wait until the roll call was complete, for many children arrived here without sponsors and their company for the two-week period would be available.

A phone call by E. M. Rahn to New York disclosed that not as many children were in the contingent as anticipated, but if families who were disappointed desired, another group probably could be sent here next Wednesday. Mrs. Wilson, meanwhile, said she would contact those families to learn if they wanted to receive the vacationing kiddies and advise the Fresh Air Fund of results.

There were familiar faces for many youngsters in the gym. To other young soldiers their benefactors were strange, but the "one-of-the-family" gleam soon dispelled any illusion that may have cost the kiddies sleepless nights early this week.

Perforated tags assigned in New York to each trooper showed the "adders" here the homes where the youngsters were destined and one portion was retained by Mrs. Wilson to check out the children as they board the train at 4:45 p. m. July 23 for their homes.

When 12-year-old Regina Dreslinski of 159th St., New York hopped from the bus she immediately spied her host, the Jacob Hartmans of Stroudsburg RD 2 and the greeting that followed indicated clearly that Regina was anxiously awaited for the third year.

Elwood Parsons of Bangor experienced a near-miss when he walked from the gymnasium with a young girl to companion his children. "I had asked for a boy and girl," Parsons said, "but when I heard them announce some children didn't come and then they called out my name for just one child I assumed the other didn't arrive."

Enroute to Bangor, Parsons and family stopped for dinner and it was there that his acquired "daughter" said "My brother is back here at the school." Parsons lost little time returning to the had clung desperately to the Dewey group; others who had been voting Taft) climbed on the booming Willkie bandwagon—everyone, as a matter of fact, but Pennsylvania.

And where was Pennsylvania? What had happened and what was happening? The story goes something like this:

Rep. Clarence Brown, a power behind the Taft movement in 1940 and every campaign since, had believed that Michigan would "go Taft" since Vandenberg's wife was known to favor the Senator from Ohio. Brown was also convinced that Pennsylvania would follow suit.

Brown was banking on the Keystone delegation to complete the blockbuster which would destroy Willkie's last chance of nomination.

A rather elaborate system of communication had been arranged between Brown and one of the members of the Pennsylvania group. The delegate, when the caucus had ended, was to race to a window in the room and perform one of two symbols: he was to either fan his brow if the caucus had decided for Taft or (if for Willkie) he would wipe his face vigorously with a handkerchief.

Brown sent a messenger to stand near a window opposite the caucus room. The messenger was then supposed to rush to Brown and relay the decision in time for an announcement.

A few split seconds after Michigan had bolted from the routine voting pattern, the messenger arrived at Brown's side, panting: "Mr. Brown, he's mopping his face with a handkerchief."

The Pennsylvania delegation had gone for Willkie—but it was much too late to matter one way or another. By the time the Keystone announcement had been made, Willkie had enough votes for the nomination and Pennsylvania was "out in the cold."

At the 1944 nominating convention in Chicago, Dr. Rosenkrans again served as Monroe County's representative, an alternate delegate to the national meeting.

In that year, Maj. William R. Coyle, Bethlehem, a former congressman (during the Hoover administration), was the district delegate. A second alternate was Evan Evans of Carbon County.

The 1944 convention was marked by comparative harmony—the Dewey forces were well-organized and the delegates responded in harmonious fashion to the New York nomination.

The Republicans named Dewey and John W. Bricker (a Taft colleague from Ohio at that time who differed with several of the conservative senator's views).

The Pennsylvania delegation followed the crowd at the 1944 convention and, although it was not leading the way, it at least refrained from coming in last.

A change in the pattern came again at the 1948 convention in Philadelphia.

With the balance of power fairly evenly distributed between a group of eastern states and mid-

OFF LES DRAKE'S Delaware Valley Transportation Co. bus hurry some 72 New York City youngsters with their luggage to meet their Pocono Mountains hosts for a two week vacation. (Daily Record photo)

While the Dewey bandwagon bumped along in second gear, Taft continued to vote Vandenberg. It was not until the Dewey machine was rolling home that the vote was changed.

Loyalty to a remote cause had, once again, cost Pennsylvania its first class accommodations on the political freighter.

In this way, Pennsylvania has sacrificed its powerful potential (70 votes) toward the making of a presidential candidate by (1) stalling for a favorite son; (2) waiting to see which way the land lay; (3) waiting for someone else to start the bandwagon or (4) by last-minute discussions in an effort to settle indecision and discord within its own body.

The parallel between the past and present is easily apparent. In at least one case, it approaches irony.

There is very little difference between the position of the Pennsylvania delegation today and the position held by that group in 1940.

Once again the "balance of power" lies with Michigan and the Keystone state.

Gov. John S. Fine consistently refused to come out in favor of either of the two leading candidates (although he has personally "favored" Douglas MacArthur).

Following MacArthur's "key-note" speech Monday night—after a day literally crowded with Eisenhower victories when the general's speech must, necessarily, have seemed anticlimactic—the prevailing attitude has been that his (Mac's) dark horse potential was considerably weakened.

Which way the Pennsylvania delegation turns today—or tomorrow—or whenever the vote is finally taken may decide conclusively whether the people of Pennsylvania are sending a powerful group to the nominating convention or a permanently jinxed organization which cannot make up its mind until the battle is over.

It was only after Sen. Edward Martin changed his allegiance to the Dewey fold that the Taft machinery began to wobble.

Doe License Quota Raised For Monroe

Monroe County's quota of doe licenses for the 1952 season has been boosted from 4,610 to 5,150, it was reported from Harrisburg yesterday.

Precise reason for the raise of 540 licenses over last year's figure was not mentioned.

However, Game Protector John Douching said the low kill might be one reason. Weather probably accounted most heavily for the low kill; the going was icy and rugged for all but the most stalwart hunters.

The majority of doe licenses assigned to Monroe will be sold through the treasurer's office at the courthouse. A portion, however, will be retained for sale in Harrisburg, but for use in the county.

The State's total quota of doe licenses remains the same as last year's: about 225,000.

This means the State hopes some 50,000 doe will be killed by hunters during the three-day season Dec. 15-17.

The quota of 224,600 special licenses for the three-day season was fixed after a study of the antlerless deer kill last year.

The State Game Commission said that 225,000 licenses were issued for the 1951 season in the hope that 75,000 antlerless deer would be killed but that only 28,000 hunters brought down a deer.

The commission noted that only one in 10 hunters killed a deer last year; in agricultural counties, one in eight in farm-forest counties and only one in five in the "big woods" counties.

Consequently, in setting up this year's quota, the commission said for each antlerless deer six licenses will be issued in each of the agriculture counties, five in the farm-forest counties and four in the "big woods" counties.

The license quotas by counties include:

Bedford, 4,400; Blair, 2,975; Bradford, 4,540; Cambria, 2,375; Cameron, 5,380; Carbon, 2,275; Centre, 8,340; Clarion, 2,825; Clearfield, 8,580.

Clinton, 7,580; Columbia, 1,975; Crawford, 3,030; Elk, 11,000; Erie, 1,980; Fayette, 2,400; Forest, 7,480; Greene, 450; Huntingdon, 5,400.

Jackass, 1,600; Lawrence, 500; Lehigh, 5,075; Lycoming, 8,600; McKean, 10,320; Mercer, 1,680; Montour, 270; Northampton, 600; Northumberland, 1,170.

Pike, 5,700; Potter, 13,800; Snyder, 1,230; Somerset, 5,800; Sullivan, 5,100; Susquehanna, 3,675; Tioga, 8,000; Union, 1,575; Venango, 4,425; Warren, 9,000; Washington, 210; Wayne, 4,160; Wyoming, 2,550.

Funeral services were held yesterday for Jack Edward Mering, late of Tannersville, who died Sunday.

Rev. William F. Wunder and Rev. Edward T. Horn officiated at the services held in the Warner funeral home.

Funeral services were Charles Patterson Jr., Ford Predmore, John DeHaven, Horace Johnson, David Lee and Herman Smeltz.

Interment was made in Laurelwood Cemetery.

Monroe county memorial committee was represented by John McConnell and George Mosher.

5.4 Inches Of Rain At Mount Pocono

Record-breaking rain—five and four tenths inches of it—ensued down over the Mount Pocono area yesterday.

The record fall was recorded by Jack Davis at the borough's airport. Davis said in all the years of his recording, he has never known that much rain to fall in a 24-hour period.

The last heavy fall was early this spring—in the neighborhood of three inches, Davis said.

Measurement was from 5 p. m. Tuesday to 5 p. m. Wednesday. The previous 24 hours had shown only 47 hundredths of an inch.

Cloudbursts and off-and-on showers were general throughout the county yesterday, but it was believed that Mount Pocono's fall was the heaviest recorded.

No damage was reported as a result of the soaking received in the mountain area.

Hughes Recalls How State Bloc Missed Boat In 1948

In 1948 Pennsylvania could have been a leader instead of a follower at the Republican convention, Russell C. Hughes, Stroudsburg, recalled last night.

Hughes, president of the Hughes Printing Co., and a former newspaperman, is the only living former Monroe County delegate to a Republican convention.

The situation in 1948 was a little different from now, according to Hughes. Opposition and schisms within the party were not so violent and open.

The convention ran off on schedule. Nominations were made Wednesday. There were some contests over delegate seating, but few of these reached the floor.

As far as Pennsylvania was concerned, "the battling took place in the caucus," Hughes remembered. "In my opinion, the Pennsylvania delegates were sadly led by Duff. He didn't call a caucus until late in the convention (Tuesday night), the former delegate continued.

"Martin jumped on the Dewey bandwagon early."

(Duff at first led a group supporting Arthur Vandenberg as a candidate. Martin did not voice his support publicly, but was believed to be with a coalition supporting Taft when the convention began.)

"At Tuesday night's caucus, the majority in Pennsylvania were for Dewey," said Hughes. Martin threw his support that way, and Wednesday morning the newspapers headlined "Martin Leads Fight for Dewey," said Hughes.

Pennsylvania's support on Wednesday night helped to sway Thursday's balloting, Hughes believes.

"But we (Pennsylvania) did climb on the bandwagon a little late."

"If we had supported Dewey earlier, Pennsylvania would have led the convention instead of following the majority's lead."

Asked if the same thing might not happen again, Hughes said "I don't know. I suppose Gov. Fine has some strategy in mind . . ."

THE ASBURY has a large utility room with three closets and a cabinet substitutes for a basement in this plan. It also houses the heating and laundry equipment. A galley-type kitchen with cabinets on opposite walls allows for a large cross-lighted dining space in the kitchen. In addition, there is a double glazed picture window and fireplace in the living room. Wardrobe closets in the bedrooms, three closets in the utility room, linen cabinet and coat closet provided for storage needs. The first floor consists of an insulated slab on gravel fill. Exterior finish is asphalt shingle, with siding and a touch of brick in the front. Overall dimensions are 44 feet by 27 feet 6 inches. Area is 1,392 square feet, cubage 16,356. Don't Forget Insulation If Building Without Cellar

There is a tendency among many modern architects to build without basements, but home owners should not forget one important value of basements—insulation.

If a home is built without a basement, therefore, insulation against the cold should be provided for by other means.

A floor of wood should be built a foot or so above the ground for proper ventilation. Since the space under the floor is open to the winter air, the floor will be cold and heavy insulation is required.

Where concrete or a combination of concrete and structural clay tile is used, proper construction is for the floor to be laid right on the ground. The ground thus becomes the insulating medium. Because of its mass and the fact that the house is heated in winter, ground temperature will vary little with the seasons.

The edges of the floor slab, however, are usually exposed to the elements and winter cold can penetrate the slab. Insulation, therefore, should be provided at the edges.

In building a concrete floor, the ground is excavated about half a foot below the floor level and the concrete is poured over cinder or gravel. The cinder or gravel fill prevents the water from coming up from the ground by capillary action and is the same as a layer of insulation.

Excavation a foot and a half deep is proper where floor and foundation meet. Cinder or gravel fill is used. Insulation for the edge of the floor slab is usually by insulating board.

Lead Pan Under Floor Halts Leak

When installing a shower stall, every precaution should be taken to prevent leakage of water through the shower floor, causing damage to ceilings and walls. A simple and inexpensive safeguard is to install a lead pan made of sheet lead 1/16-inch thick under the tile or composition floor, and turning it at least six inches up behind the wall finish.

Get More Heat From Fireplace

If you are putting in a new fireplace in the basement rumpus or recreation room, it would be advisable to install a double walled steel form in the masonry construction around which the fireplace is built. There are openings in the front of the device at floor and rear the shelf through which the cold air is drawn off the floor, heated and then the heated air escapes into the room. Rapid and even heating is possible, and this equipment adds but little to the cost of the fireplace and does save much heat and provides extra warmth for chilly days.

Home Builder Should Know Roof Designs

There are many different varieties of roofs and roofing materials available now, and although it is not necessary for the home builder or home buyer to know all of them, it is important to have some idea of the various types.

The most simple roof of all is the lean-to or shed roof. It is generally used for small sheds, porches, ells, and other structures where overhead shelter is needed inexpensively. It consists of a plain surface with one side at a higher level than the other side. The roof is supported by walls or posts.

The ordinary pitch or gable roof has two sloping surfaces coming together at the ridge in the center of the building. It is usually the basis of most houses, although in many cases it is combined with other types of roofs.

The gambrel roof is used to give more space in the portion of the house directly below the surface of the roof. The roof surface is broken on both sides of the building with less slope to the portion above the break than below.

The mansard roof slopes very steeply from each wall toward the center instead of from just two sides. This roof gives more attic space than those previously mentioned, and is occasionally used in the 1½ story house to give more bedroom space.

The hip roof slopes less steeply than the mansard roof, and has very little useful attic space. It is usually used when attic space or rooms below the roof are not considered necessary.

The flat roof has been employed in recent years in the design of modern homes. It is the least expensive of roofs to build because it covers so little area. It is also one of the most difficult to keep tight.

The finish for the outer coating of roofs may be any one of a number of good substantial materials—wood shingles, slate, asbestos or asphalt shingles, clay tile, sheet copper, enamel tile, aluminum shingles or sheets, etc.

Basement Drainage

The basement floor should slope uniformly to a floor drain.

Home-Builders Turn Again To Red Or Green Driveways

The country being more and more color conscious, word from the building trades indicates folks are thinking again about green driveways, red driveways. The green ones look a little more like the lawn than drab gray concrete, and you don't have to mow it. The red drives do look like the brick in the house.

Decorative touches, to be sure. When coloring is put into drives it should be mixed with the top-surfacing, the finish coat. It cannot be satisfactorily trowled in or sprinkled on, say the contractors who have used it. It must be mixed with the last inch of cement that goes on the job for smooth, even color. Such a job requires 36 pounds of pigment per 100 square feet of the finished job. The color must be mineral pigment to last, water color won't last.

There are several reds, greens, chocolate, midnight blue, black and buff in these pigments. Costs vary. Greens are quoted around 35 cents a pound, reds about 16. The coloring lasts several years in the weather and under traffic and softens as it ages. There is no way of recoloring it short of re-concreting, the builders state. Coloring in concrete lasts much longer indoors.

Efficient Roof Drainage Needed

An ideal drainage system must be designed so it will carry away the water shed by the roof most efficiently.

Roofs, flashings, and valleys should be built to shed the water and turn it toward gutters and outlets as fast as possible. Gutters and leaders should have capacity for the maximum amount.

Structural Glass Smart And Practical

One of the most satisfactory and smart ways of finishing the walls of your bathroom is to use colored structural glass. The glass does not fade, it is impervious to moisture, it may be easily cleaned by wiping with a damp cloth, and furnishes a beautifully polished reflective surface. The glass comes in a variety of colors so that you may select almost any color combination or scheme for your room, and have each bathroom with a different design and appearance.

Large Staff Covering Political Conventions For Associated Press

Specialists Writing For Daily Record

The Associated Press, of which The Daily Record is a member, has a staff of more than one hundred writers, photographers and technicians in Chicago for the two national conventions.

Specialists in politics and international affairs are concentrating on the main business of choosing presidential candidates and hammering together the party platforms. There are also feature writers, columnists and regional representatives.

All are teaming up to turn out a comprehensive report for both morning and afternoon papers. The regional writers are covering the activities of individual state delegates, sending to home state papers special stories tailored to their needs.

The staff is headed by William L. Beale Jr., chief of the Washington bureau and a veteran of eight national conventions. He has been covering national politics and international affairs for The AP in Washington since 1930.

Ronald Kovacic, news editor in the Washington bureau, is directly in charge of staff assignments and coverage. Bennett Wolfe, Washington special service editor, heads the regional staff and F. A. Resch, general newsphoto editor, the photo staff.

Among the writers are the veteran political reporter Jack Bell, head of AP's Senate staff; Bill Arbogast, head of the House staff; Douglas B. Cornell, veteran of the White House beat and of campaign tours; Ed Haackinson of the Senate staff; Ovid Martin, agricultural expert and Norman Walker, labor reporter.

Pulitzer Prize winners Reiman (Pat) Morin and Don Whitehead will interpret stories to give the atmosphere of the conventions in its public and private sessions.

Art Edson and Ed Creagh, masters of the light touch, pry for features that may be entertaining as well as instructive. Hal Boyle, the "poor man's philosopher" another Pulitzer Prize winner—turns out his column from the convention city, as does Jim Marlow. Ruth Cowan covers women's news.

Many of the writers helped cover World War II and post-war events for the AP in far corners of the world. Others have had more experience dealing with Congress and Washington political events than many of the senators and representatives on Capitol Hill.

AP wires were extended into International Amphitheater, the Convention Hall, and directly to the convention platform. There is an AP editing desk in the hall as well as in the hotel where the two parties have headquarters.

Editors from the Washington copy desk who man the convention desk include J. W. Davis, W. T. Peacock, R. J. Crowley, Don Sanders, G. L. Bridge and Warren Rogers.

Jake Engle and Ernest G. Warren assist Wolfe on the regional desk.

WILLIAM L. BEALE Jr., chief of the Washington Bureau, will direct The AP convention staff this year.

Beale has had a hand in covering Washington's big news for The AP since 1930, when he joined the Washington staff. After assignments on most of the news runs in the city he was named news editor in 1936 and bureau chief in 1949. He has had a hand in directing AP coverage of every national political convention since 1936.

WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST, head of The Associated Press House staff has been on the job there since 1938. He is considered an authority on the complicated process of covering appropriations legislation. He covered both political conventions in 1944 and again in 1948 and has wide acquaintance with leading politicians of both parties.

MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH has been on the AP Senate staff since World War II. Before that he covered some of the wartime emergency agencies. Arrowsmith also has had White House assignments and in 1948 covered the Dewey presidential campaign. He will be assigned this year to Eisenhower's headquarters for the Republican convention.

JACK BELL, one of the nation's best known political writers, has covered personally many of the major primary elections, state conventions, party conferences, culminating in the Chicago conventions. He has traveled to all sections of the country to report these events for AP newspapers. When he is not out concentrating on the hot political wars, Bell heads The AP's Senate staff.

DOUGLAS B. CORNELL has covered Congress, politics and the White House for more than 20 years. He traveled with Franklin D. Roosevelt in the campaigns of 1936, 1940 and 1944 and with Harry Truman in 1948. He covered the 1944 and 1948 conventions. He has also covered such complex stories as the founding of the United Nations, the Yalta Conference and numerous Congressional investigations.

G. MILTON KELLY, specialist in politics and international affairs will have a long assignment at both Chicago conventions. Kelly formerly covered politics just before the end of World War II and became bureau chief in India. He has been in Washington for three years, on the Senate staff.

NORMAN WALKER, expert on labor affairs, covers not only the labor department in Washington but the labor situation throughout the nation. Through years of experience he has come to know all of the top labor leaders and many management representatives. At Chicago he will report on labor issues as they affect presidential candidates and party platforms.

DON WHITEHEAD won fame as a war correspondent with Eisenhower's armies from North Africa across Europe. He made six assault landings in World War II but won his Pulitzer Prize in Korea. He will write for morning newspapers during the conventions, turning out descriptive stories on the "atmosphere" of the convention hall; how the delegates behave or misbehave; what goes on in the back room.

MORRIS LANDSBERG is the correspondent in charge of The AP bureau at Sacramento, and is AP's political expert on the West Coast. He has personally covered most of the major developments in the campaign in that section. An AP writer since 1938, Landsberg's experience includes 2½ years as a war correspondent in the Pacific.

EDWIN B. HAACKINSON has been covering the Senate longer than many senators have been in it. He has been in Washington with The Associated Press since 1936 except for time out in the Air Force during World War II. He covered the Supreme Court, the Justice and Agriculture departments before moving to Congress.

ART EDSON has the happy faculty of writing news stories so they are easily understood. Many of the most amusing feature stories telling of the lighter side of Washington life in recent years have come from his type-writer. At the conventions he will be assigned to this type of story and also will do portions of the main running story.

ED CREAGH is widely known both for his handling of a fast breaking news story and for a deft writing touch. As an AP writer since 1940, Creagh has worked in Philadelphia, New York, London and Washington. In Washington his assignments have included covering the White House and traveling with President Truman. His specialty is what newsmen call human interest stories.

Two Die In Crash
Sunbury 4½—Two persons died in a crash Tuesday between two automobiles and a tractor-trailer near here. Mrs. Esther Reed, 22 of Scranton, was killed instantly. Albert Cohen, 26, of Baltimore, Md. in the same car, died six hours later.

RUTH COWAN writes about anything from bonnets to battleships. Miss Cowan's assignments have included the Pentagon, Congress and the White House. She was one of the first women to become a war correspondent, landing with WACS in North Africa in 1943. She helped cover the presidential campaign of Alfred M. Landon in 1936 and has been covering the national conventions since 1940.

JOE HALL started as a "grass roots" political writer and has been correspondent for The AP in the capitals of both Kansas and Missouri. After wartime service with the Army he covered New York politics. In 1948 he covered Dewey headquarters at the Philadelphia convention and this time will keep watch again on Dewey activity. He will have a roving assignment in the Democratic convention.

Hobo Party Of Fire Aux. Proves Novel

Marshall Creek—The annual Hobo party sponsored by the Marshall Creek Firemen's Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Jay Miller, this place, Tuesday night, attracted a large attendance.

Originally intended to be held on the lawn of the Miller home, weather man objected and it was staged in the basement instead. Tables were uniquely arranged and decorated in Hobo fashion for the potluck supper served at 6 p. m.

Nearly all those in attendance were attired in keeping with the occasion, there being numerous very funny outfits included, which with the bantering among the guests, added to the merriment of the party.

During the business meeting, plans were discussed for the participation of the auxiliary in the annual carnival of the fire company, which opens on the grounds at the fire hall Friday and Saturday nights of this week. The carnival continues the same nights for the next two weeks.

The auxiliary will have charge of the wishing well, baked goods, art booth and will also assist the firemen at other stands and concessions.

The hostesses for the party were: Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Earl Primrose, Mrs. Adolph Rake and Mrs. Harry Buckman.

Bible Study Hour At Playgrounds

The Bible Study Hour will be conducted Friday, weather permitting, at the East Stroudsburg playground from 1:30 to 2:30 p. m. and at the Stroudsburg playground from 3 to 4 p. m.

Mrs. Howard Allen, of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, will be the story teller.

The park program, under the supervision of Mrs. Grant Kelper and Mrs. Nina Hawk, will be a weekly occurrence at both the parks this summer. The program has the approval of the Monroe County Sunday School Assn.

Outdoor Festival Of Fellowships

The Intermediate and Youth Fellowships of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church will sponsor an "Outdoor Festival" on the church lawn Saturday night starting at 7:30. In case of rain, it will be held indoors.

The young people announce there will be ice cream, sundaes, baked goods and sodas for sale. In addition, there will be a novelty table and a grabbag. The proceeds will be devoted to the Institute fund.

FILMY SILK LAYERS—Aqua silk organza was used for this strapless ball gown by Ceil Chapman for summer, 1952. Apple blossoms are tucked into the skirt and matching separate stole.

Basket Picnic Methodist S. S. Friday Night

The basket picnic of the Stroudsburg Methodist Sunday School will be held at the Stroudsburg playgrounds at 6 p. m. Friday, Frank Werkheiser, chairman of the committee of arrangements, has announced.

The picnic will be held rain or shine. In the event of rain, it will be held in the basement of the church. Announcement of change will be made over radio station WVPO and by the ringing of the church bell at 5:30 p. m.

There will be games and prizes, quilts for men, also softball game and a peanut scramble among other attractions.

The outing will be closed with a short song service under the direction of Rev. Roger C. Stinson, pastor of the church.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

A lot of people are going to know a lot more about political policies and political figures than they ever did before—more even than they expected to, or want to, maybe. Particularly the television fans, who have no choice.

Everywhere you go, you'll find people discussing the impression which this speaker or that made. In fact, I wouldn't be surprised if the folks at home were listening to more of the speeches than the delegates, busy with committees and dickerings and getting to their seats and getting out again.

But after three solid days and nights of oratory, the local audience finds their attention wavering, too. Instead of listening to what is being said, they're watching what is going on.

The little old man who waves his handkerchief in graceful time to the music in times of general excitement, the motions the man behind the speaker is making to somebody across the hall, the hand that keeps replenishing the speaker's water glass.

You may think all this isn't social, but if you could hear the familiar terms in which women are referring to national figures, you'd realize that they've become as real and familiar visitors in local homes as the woman down the street or the couple who came in to play bridge and instead talked politics.

Past Pres. Meet

The past presidents of P. O. of A. Camp, 289, Stroudsburg, will meet tonight at 8 at the home of Mrs. Elsie Marsh, 1648 Wallace St.

Candles are appropriate used on a dinner or supper table; they are not appropriate for a luncheon table unless the shades are drawn or the day is dark.

Poplar Valley Board Plans Home Coming

Poplar Valley—The official board of the Poplar Valley Methodist Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dennis Monday night, Rev. C. Clyde Levergood, the pastor, conducted the business session.

One of the highlights of the session was consideration of plans for the Home Coming or anniversary of the congregation to be held at the church Sunday, Sept. 7. Special speakers and music will be arranged for the celebration.

The Sunday School picnic was also under discussion, but no definite date was chosen.

Announcement was made that jars to be filled for the Home for the Aged are at the parsonage and any one desiring to cooperate in the project is asked to get in touch with Rev. Levergood.

Those in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Albert, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gunn, John Hartman, James Cyphers, Joyce Gunn, Glenn Reish, Mrs. Fred Dennis, Rev. Levergood and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dennis.

Missioners Of St. John's Church Hold Discussion

The Women's Missionary Society of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church met in the social rooms Tuesday night with Mrs. George Bush, the president, in charge.

The devotions were in charge of Mrs. Thomas H. Knepp assisted by Mrs. Elмира Schmidt, Mrs. John S. Fisher, Mrs. Mabel Weiss and Mrs. Edward Yost.

The topic for discussion, "My Peace I Give Unto You," was led by Mrs. Knepp and participated in by other members of the group.

During the business session, there was discussion on future programs, one of which to include a moving picture.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting, the hostesses having been Mrs. Howard L. Kelper, Miss Thelma Shaw and Miss Dorothy Goedecke.

WSCS Meet Today

The WSCS of the Cherry Valley Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Harold Dennis, Bossardsville, today. Dinner will be served at noon and the business session will open at 2 p. m.

George's TERRIFIC SUMMER CLEARANCE SALE STILL GOING ON!!!

If you need shoes, now is the time to get them! George's are continuing their summer clearance sale, and there are hundreds of pairs of regular stock summer shoes that are marked way down in order to clear them out and make room for the Fall shoes that are starting to arrive.

Besides the summer stock, there are also several styles of discontinued numbers that are wonderful values. An example of these is Matrix shoes, regularly $19.95 to $22.95 now only $14.95; Collegebred pumps, regularly $17.95, now $11.90; some Johansen Bros. Wedgies, regularly $9.95 now only $4.00 pair.

Also a number of other styles, ranging in value up to $12.95, as low as $4.00 and $5.00 a pair.

Come in and try them on. Almost certainly you will find your size in one style or another.

Make Final Plans St. John's Church School Picnic

Final arrangements for the annual picnic of St. John's Evangelical Church school and congregation to be held at Stroudsburg playground, Wednesday, July 16, were made at a meeting of the committee held Tuesday night at the church.

As usual, it will be an afternoon and evening affair with the basket supper being participated in at 6:15.

Plans were discussed for both the young people and the elders which will include games and various contests. The games will get under way at 5:30 p. m.

Floyd Fetherman is chairman of the committee in charge of games and contests and Mrs. Fetherman is chairman of the prize committee. Charles A. Keiper will look after publicity.

The annual outing of the congregation and church school attracts very large attendance and the committees said that every effort was being made to make it a pleasurable one.

Engagement Of Bennett, Engel Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bennett, of Philadelphia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to Charles J. Engel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Engel, of Stroudsburg RD 2, which took place Saturday, July 5, at the Greenwood home of the Engels.

They are both veterans of World War Two, Charles having served in the U. S. Army and Florence in the Waves. Mr. Engel is now employed by Martin Serfass, of Stroudsburg RD 2, and Miss Bennett is payroll clerk at Nu-Maid Hosiery mills in Stroudsburg. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Shawnee Co. To Give Show Next Month

Shawnee-on-Delaware — A meeting of the Shawnee Fire Company and Auxiliary was held at Worthington Hall Tuesday night of this week when arrangements were discussed for the benefit show which will replace the usual carnival of the organization.

The show will be staged at the Stroudsburg High School auditorium Wednesday, Aug. 13, at 8:30 p. m. The decision to put on the performance in Stroudsburg was reached in order to furnish plenty of accommodations for the big crowd expected on that occasion.

Prominent artists of the Fred Waring Pennsylvanians will furnish the program. Among those who will perform are Livingston Gearhart and Virginia Morley, duo pianists; Leonard Kranendonk, baritone soloist; Lewis and Jean Ely, duo violinists, and Tom Waring.

Charles Mott, president of the company, named Parke Unangst publicity chairman and in charge of program; Mrs. Lawton Clapper, program chairman for the Ladies' Auxiliary, and Commander William Gorman in charge of tickets.

Around The Stroudsburgs

Mrs. Amelia Caretta is convalescing at her home, 60 Lennox Ave., East Stroudsburg, after having been hospitalized. She expresses her appreciation for cards and other kindnesses shown her during her illness.

Ben F. Everitt and daughter, Mary, of Easton, made a brief call on relatives in the borough yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Joseph Allen, of Brewton, Ala., and Rev. Paul Zoghy, of Mobile, Ala., called on the Robert Goodwins, Bridge St., and the John Papsons, W. Main St., Stroudsburg, Wednesday.

Mrs. Laura Pote, of Paulsboro, N. J., and Mrs. Keziah Hurff, of Seward, N. J., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Strait, Delaware Water Gap. Mrs. Pote and Mrs. Strait are sisters.

Mrs. George Noss, of Berea, Ky., and daughter, Mrs. Wallace Gibson, and son, Lawrence, of Hodgeville, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wiley and children, Susan and David, of Columbus, Ohio, are guests of their grandmother, Mrs. Martha Geissinger, 1128 W. Main St., Stroudsburg.

There's something about the phrase "shadow boxes" that always bothers me. Whenever it's used, I visualize Mrs. Darling, in Sir James Barrie's famous book, finding Peter Pan's shadow on the floor and folding it carefully into a bureau drawer; or a boxer, dancing back and forth in a graceful bout with the only opponent who will never be able to knock him out. But rarely if ever do I picture the decorative shelves such as are now being shown in our store arcade in varied sizes, shapes, and finishes.

In addition to the small, mirror-backed wall boxes, Wyckoff's is now showing an assortment of truly handsome whatnots, in mahogany, black or gilt finish. Some are of handsomely carved wood and others are of a pressed composition that is only 75% wood. A few are finished in color (one is chartreuse) and many are designed along the lines of Chinese Modern. A number of styles are made additionally decorative by candle brackets, attached at either side.

If you're in a mood to "fuss and fix" a bit, these are worthy of your consideration. Prices range from $2.95 to $19.50 and, complete with your prized knick-knacks, will add color and interest to your walls. Whether "shadow-boxing" or "what not", they pack a terrific wallop for glamour in the home.

Even the Sandman appreciates feminine daintiness. And just to meet his standards of perfection, beauty editors are recommending all kinds of new sleep-time glamour aids, including a ruffled nylon cap which will appear on the market soon complete with a $15 price tag.

Not so expensive but equally beauty-wise, are the batiste nighties now offered by Edith Pennington at close-out prices. Fashioned for "The Cool, Cool, Cool of the Evening", there are two groups reduced from $3.98 to $2.98, and another group marked down from $5.98 to $3.98. Some are varicolored; others are in solid shades of pink, maize and blue, and the most expensive are in pastel, with bodice of white. Fluffy, perky eyelid trim adds a crisp note. For SHEER comfort, these are perfect . . . the least cumbersome, most sumptuous gowns in ever so many a moon.

Bargains too are the Terry beach jackets, blazer type, now being shown by Mrs. Pennington, at a saving of THREE dollars! Marked down from $5.98 to $2.98, these striped beauties are bright as a carousel. And they're just long enough to keep you in style to your finger tips, on the beach or while motoring. This is a wonderful opportunity to finish the season in a blazer of glory!

Kathleen Hess To Wed Army Man

Mt. Bethel — The engagement of Miss Kathleen Hess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hess, to Fred Beck, USA, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Beck, same place, has been announced by the bride-to-be's parents.

Miss Hess was graduated from Bangor High School in June and is employed by the Portland Novelty Co. Mr. Beck is presently at Indianapolis Gap awaiting his discharge from the Army.

Steel Leaders Want Iron Ore Mines To Work

Pittsburgh, AP—The steel industry wants the striking steelworkers to agree to resuming iron ore production and prevent a steel shutdown next winter—but it hasn't asked the union officially to talk it over. Strike leaders won't tip their hand until they get the steelmen's request.

Executives of 10 large steel-producing companies met in New York with ore mining officials and decided to ask the CIO United Steelworkers to end the companion strike of some 23,000 ore miners in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The miners, who are members of the USW, struck in sympathy with their fellow unionists employed in the steel mills.

Iron ore is the principal ingredient of steel. It is refined into iron and the iron, in turn, is refined into steel.

Steel leaders say if they can't bring iron ore down the Great Lakes in summer, they can't build up the ore stockpiles they need to keep operating next winter when the lakes are frozen. That would mean the mills would shut down again months after the current strike of 600,000 steelworkers is finally settled.

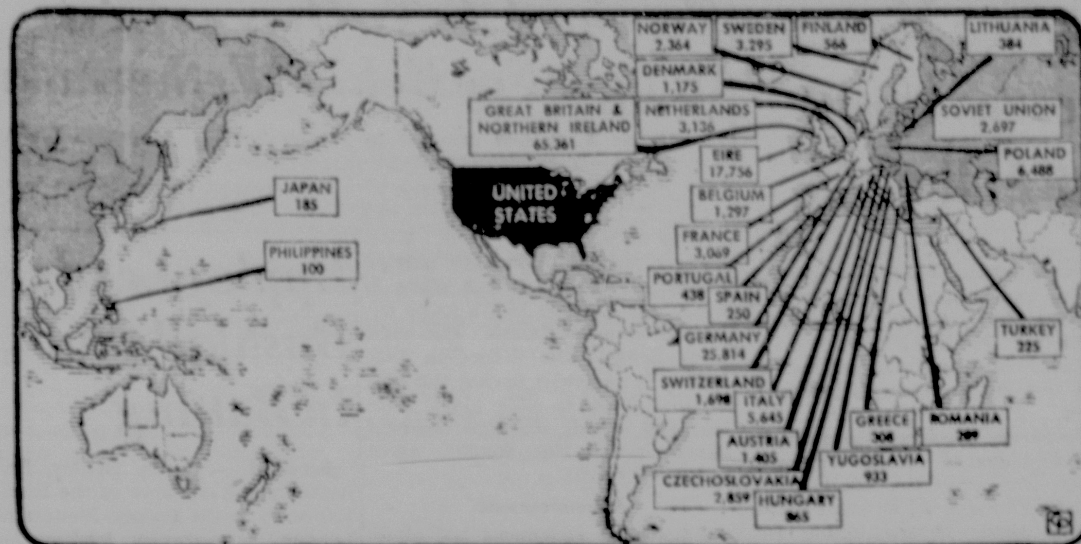

No reaction from USW President Philip Murray is available. Aides said he will have nothing to say about the proposal until he gets it officially from the industry.

The steel industry's move to get iron ore miners back to work is a blow to any hopes that the 39-day-old steel strike can be settled in the near future. If the steelmen were optimistic about the strike's end, they probably would not press for an end of the iron ore walkout.

Court Asks Additional U.S. Judges

Atlantic City, N. J. AP—Judges of the Third Federal Circuit Court yesterday asked that six more judges be assigned to handle U. S. court work in Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

Help is needed because the case backlog is already large, industrial growth of the area is bringing in more and more cases, and judicial corporation suits crowd the calendars, judges said.

The circuit's 15th annual judicial conference, attended by about 150 lawyers and judges, voted to send this request to the judicial conference of the U. S. in Washington next September. There Chief Judge John Biggs of Wilmington.

Del., will try to include it in U. S. court requests sent to Congress.

The new judges were requested on the following basis: Two for New Jersey, two for Eastern Pennsylvania, one for Western Pennsylvania and one for Delaware.

Martin, Mantle, Mauch Come To Poconos In Quest Of Good Fishing

By Jim Riley

Swiftwater—Advertising is responsible for the presence in the Pocono Mountains of two mainstays of the New York Yankees and the man who keeps the American League champions in top physical condition, so the trio informed this writer during a brief visit here at Mount Airy Lodge yesterday, where Billy Martin, Mickey Mantle and Gus Mauch spent a short vacation, with their wives.

The group departed from Shibe Park, in Philadelphia, immediately after the All-Star game was halted after the fifth inning on Tuesday. The group is scheduled to depart from here this morning and return to New York for tonight's game with the St. Louis Browns, as the Bronx Bombers launch the second half of the present campaign in search of their fourth straight title.

Martin, Mantle and Mauch selected Mount Airy Lodge because the advertisement revealed fishing in the near vicinity. Although the heavy rains halted the fishing yesterday morning, the group took off for Brown's Lake, in Canadensis, early in the afternoon, after signing several autographs for some loyal Yankee rooters.

Hopeful

Billy is hopeful of returning to the New York lineup tonight, after a long tour of duty on the bench because of damaged ligaments in his right leg, the same limb that was broken in two places during a training camp accident in Florida this Spring.

Martin and Mauch pointed out that the Yankees aren't trying any harder for a fourth straight flag than they have for the past three. Billy pointed out that the club doesn't even talk pennant until September, as it takes each game as it comes during the regular campaign, concentrating on winning only one at a time. Mauch revealed that regardless of what position the Bronx Bombers maintain, at any given point in the schedule, every other club in the American League wants to know how Manager Casey Stengel's forces are doing and just how they stand. The Yankee trainer added that in this manner the other clubs keep the pressure on themselves throughout the campaign, and take it off the Yankees.

Mauch added that Martin is the only casualty on the club at the present time, although the Yankees were plagued with all kinds of injuries during the early portion of the campaign. However, both Mauch and Martin are hopeful that the slightly built Billy will be back at second base against the Browns tonight.

Mantle revealed that he is very happy in his new center field position and is in good shape, although the right knee injured during the 1951 World Series remains weak and must be carefully wrapped prior to each game. Mickey also revealed that the various talk and stories appearing concerning his batting ability from the left and right side of the plate were meaningless, as he feels that he has the same power from each side of the plate and also feels that he hits as frequently from the respective side of the dish, while going right.

Mickey gives credit to Tommy Henrich and Stengel for his development as an outfielder, after beginning his professional career as a shortstop. Mantle's father was responsible for the Yankee center fielder developing into a switch hitter.

Nothing New

Mantle, when questioned about recent reports of another draft from the left and right side of the plate were meaningless, as he feels that he has the same power rounds concerning possible entry into the Army.

Martin revealed that his feud with Jim Piersall, before the latter was returned to the minors by the Boston Red Sox, wasn't outstanding due to the fact that Piersall was unpopular as virtually every player in the American League, including those on the Boston club, disliked the combination infielder-outfielder. Piersall became just too much for Martin one day at Yankee Stadium and they exchanged blows before pulled apart by members of both clubs.

The major league trio and wives spent Tuesday night bowling at the George N. Kemp American Legion Post, where they met many local baseball fans.

All are pleased with the Poconos and promised to come back at some future date, although they hope the next visit won't be marred by rain.

Although Martin, Mantle and Mauch play golf, fishing ranks second to baseball on their sports agenda.

However, the big aim of all three at the present time is a fourth straight pennant for the New York Yankees and the 1953 flag flying over Yankee Stadium next Spring.

Coffee Money Scores Upset At Arlington

Chicago, (AP)—Coffee Money, 1-year-old five-year-old yesterday scored an upset victory in the $21,950 Myrtlewood Handicap at Arlington Park.

Royal Mustang finished second and Hal Price Headley's Recovery third.

Recovery, however, was disqualified and placed fourth with Pet Bully, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice, Chicago, moving up to third place. Jockey Eddie Arcaro, riding Pet Bully, protested that Recovery interfered with Pet Bully in the stretch run.

Gain

The victory was worth $13,720, to K. G. Marshall, retired restaurant owner, Birmingham, Ala., who owns Coffee Money. The winner, ridden by Jockey Johnny Adams, sprinted the six furlongs in 1:13.

Coffee Money, paid $23,600, $9.20 and $4.80. Royal Mustang, owned by Sam Wilson Jr., Corpus Christi, Tex., returned $9.60 and $5.60, with Pet Bully paying $3.60 to show.

St. Paul Open Begins Today

St. Paul, Minn. (AP)—St. Paul's Keller Golf course—with a generous lift from the weather—is ready to put its best foot forward today for the opening of the 19th St. Paul Open tournament.

Record

Tournament entries will be shooting at the record 266 with which Lloyd Mangrum won last year. His total included another record, 62 for 18 holes.

Mangrum, this year's Western Open champion, will be back to defend his title, along with 1952 winners of two other top tournaments. Other champions on deck will be Sam Snead, Master's winner, and Jim Turnesa, PGA champion.

Pocono A.C. To Oppose East Bangor For Behind Fetherman

Pocono A. C. will attempt to stretch its Blue Mountain League winning streak to three straight games today, when the charges of Manager John Schoonover clash with East Bangor, on the latter's home field. The contest is scheduled to get under way at 6:15 p. m.

Two straight wins over West Bangor and Portland have carried Pocono A. C. into fourth place in the standings, only half a game behind third place Roseto. However, East Bangor, the defending title holder, is currently eyeing the first division from its fifth place position and is only one and one-half games behind the fourth place Schoonovermen.

Announcement

Schoonover announced last night that Alden "Red" Fetherman, highly regarded right-handed hurler, would be on the hill for Pocono A. C. as last year's playoff champion attempts to take the measure of the 1951 regular season king.

The remainder of the lineup will feature John Drew behind the plate; Dick Schaller, first base; Bill Frear, second base; Don Sweda, shortstop; Harold Freeman, third base; Bob Schick, left field; Doug Schoonover, center field, and Bill Frack, right field.

Pocono A. C. is also listed for action on Sunday, at Tatamy, at 2:30 p. m.

Roseto and West Bangor are scheduled to clash today, at 6:15 p. m., on the latter's home field, as the only other contest to be played in the Blue Mountain League today.

Rain Halts Schedule Of Local Games

Rain washed out the local baseball and softball picture for the second straight day yesterday and forced postponement of all scheduled events until a later date.

The Monroe County Softball League All-Star series was set back another day, with yesterday's scheduled battle between the Red and Blues listed for today, at the Stroudsburg Playground, at 6:15 p. m.

East Stroudsburg's Little League meeting between R. C. Cramer Lumber Co. and Peters-Arnold-Howell was washed off the books yesterday, but the National Bank and Methodist clash today, on the loop's official field, at 6:30 p. m.

The game featuring Security Trust and Peoples Coal in the Stroudsburg Little League was washed off the books, but the circuit features the National Bank and Penn-Stroud Hotel today, at 6:30 p. m., at the league's official field.

Blue Mountain

A Blue Mountain League tussle between Johnsonville and Stockertown, at Stockertown, was also washed off the books yesterday and will be played at a later date.

The Northampton County American Legion League contest between East Stroudsburg and Bath, at Bath, was also postponed because of rain and will be played at a later date.

Tom Carmella, manager of the East Stroudsburg team, announced last night, that the club would hold a Tag Day on Saturday, during the 30th District American Legion convention. Tags will be distributed during the planned parade, to all those who make donations to those distributing tickets.

The money is to be used to take the George N. Kemp Post team to a major league game in the near future, Carmella announced.

New Golfing Star Born In Public Links Tournament

Miami, Fla., (AP)—A new star rose from the ranks of America's amateur golfers yesterday when Bob Scherer, a rangy, unknown Illinois laborer, blasted defending champion Dave Stanley, 21, of Los Angeles out of the National Public Links Golf Tournament.

Rosendahl Medalist In Junior Play

Irwin, Pa. (AP)—Dave Rosendahl, Irwin Country Club entry, won medalist honors yesterday in the 32nd annual Western Pennsylvania Junior Golf Tournament by covering the rain-drenched Baldock Hills Country Club course in a three-over-par 39-36-75.

A hole in one on the 160-yard eighth hole kept Paul Winter of South Hills among the 16 qualifiers. He fired a 41-44-85 but the eighth hole ace was his salvation.

Defending Champ

Jim Holding, defending champion from Longue Vue, finished second with a 39-38-77. Allen Berk of the host club was third with a 40-38-78.

Wayne Smith Jr., Alcoma, and Fraser Lewis, Shannopin, tied for fourth with 81s. Both were in the 1951 semi-finals. Don Kennedy, Shannopin, beat out four other players who shot 89s for the last place in the title division. He got a par five on number one.

Two rounds of match play will shave the field to four players in the tournament today. Semi-finals and finals are scheduled for tomorrow.

The Western Pennsylvania Junior Golf Tournament annually features the best young links talent in the western portion of the Keystone State.

Large crowds are expected to witness the match-play rounds.

Jinx Hits Trotter

Goshen, N.Y. (AP)—Victor everywhere else against everyone else, Duke of Lullwater's upset defeat here last week by Lilt Song adds fuel to the jinx that the highly rated Hambletonian colt can win every time except in Goshen, scene of what he most wants to win—the $90,000-plus Hambletonian—August 6.

Dixie Rebel Draws Top Price

Lexington, Ky. (AP)—A bid for $10,000 for Miss Dixie Rebel, four-year-old line harness horse, topped the Spindletop Farm dispersal sale of saddle and show horses yesterday. The farm sold 30 head for a total of $52,400, an average of $1,747.

Robert Baskowitz of St. Louis, Mo., bought the chestnut daughter of Beau Peavine—Bobbie's Irish Rose by American Born.

Among others bringing high prices was Lexington Leader, six-year-old five-gaited stallion.

Department Of Justice To Remain Neutral

Washington (AP)—The Justice Department said yesterday it will take a neutral position on a proposal to reopen Wheeling Downs race track at Wheeling, W. Va., now closed and in receivership.

A Federal District Court at Fairmont, W. Va., has scheduled a hearing today on a plea by the track operator, William G. Lind of Wheeling, that the receivership be lifted to permit a 1952 racing season.

Receivership

The track was placed in receivership as part of the government's effort to collect $2,800,000 from Lind in back income taxes, interest and penalties which it contends he still owes.

A U. S. Tax Court hearing on the claim has been recessed until September 15.

Lind has contended that reopening of the track not only would provide money to help settle any claim proved against him, but also would boost tax revenues of the federal and West Virginia state governments.

Bennett Sixth At Bone Stadium

Pittston. Car owners and drivers, like the speed fans, are still talking about the terrific speed and crashing action in the July 4 stock car race show, under AARA sanction here at Bone Stadium Speedway. They are predicting that the explosive racing will resume, promptly at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Les Hoover, Harvey's Lake, finished behind Dixon and earned enough points to boost his total to 186, only 10 behind leader Ed Spencer of Nanticoke who has 196 points. "Wild Will" Frey, Wilkes-Barre, surrendered the runner-up spot but still holds third place with 168 points. Fourth and fifth places are held by Nanticoke's, "Hank" Boltz 146 and Bill Jenkins 129 markers. Bill "Flip" Bennett, Scranton is now in sixth place with 103 points followed by Clyde Campbell 94 and Ray Elston 88 points, both are Harvey's Lakers. Bennett drives a car owned by Bernie Clemens, East Stroudsburg.

Other Arrivals

Among other arrivals were 17 from Israel, 42 Bulgarians and 72 Russians. The Polish squad of 217 was expected last night by train.

All teams will compete against the best remainder of the world has to offer.

Richest Schedule

Chicago, (AP)—The richest spring and summer tournament schedule in professional golf history is now in progress. Total prize money should amount to more than $600,000. A contemplated fall tour should raise the total by nearly $100,000.

Musial Sees Cardinals As Threat To Dodgers, Giants; Stengel Confident Yanks Will Win

New York (AP)—"This is where the men become separated from the boys."

The statement belongs to Stan "The Man" Musial, slugging star of the St. Louis Cardinals and premier batter of the National League.

With the three-day All-Star game holiday over the second half of the season starts today. As always, it promises to be a case of the survival of the fittest. The clubs have finished experimenting and are ready for the stretch grind. Victories and defeats take on added importance now because the time is running short.

Faded The morning glories have faded. Early season sensations like the St. Louis Browns and Cincinnati Reds have returned to their normal way of living. A couple, like the Washington Senators and Chicago Cubs, stubbornly continue their struggle to stay in the sun.

On the other hand the Cardinals and Chicago White Sox after a slow start, are making their long-awaited move. Both have begun to put added pressure on the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees. During the first half of the season, the Dodgers' only serious challenge came from the New York Giants. The Cards and Philadelphia Phils, expected to help create a four-team fight for the National League flag, had been dormant. The Phils, under new manager Steve O'Neill, have shown signs of waking up during the past two weeks and may improve their fifth place standing. The Cards, playing the best ball in the league with 18 victories in their last 22 games, are in third place, trailing the Dodgers by nine games and the runner-up Giants by only four and a half.

The Yankees, leading the American League pack by three games, feel justified in the belief that they have better than an even chance to capture their fourth straight pennant. As in the past, they have shown that they can rise to an occasion and the big game against their most serious rivals.

"We may not possess the powerhouse teams of other years," said Manager Casey Stengel, "but we have a good team nevertheless. It is a well rounded squad with enough punch, fine pitching and brilliant defense. I don't say we will win but I can't see anybody who can beat us."

Question The Yankees' picture may change, however, should they lose Mickey Mantle, their ever-improving centerfielder, to the service. Mantle's draft status is being probed again and the case of the osteomyelitis-plagued youngster is expected to go before his home town Oklahoma board within two weeks.

Although the White Sox have charged into second place past Cleveland, Boston and Washington, Stengel still fears the in-and-out third place Indians the most. In this prospect, he sees eye to eye with Al Lopez, skipper of the Tribe.

We're best prepared of any club for the stretch grind," asserted Lopez. "We've got the pitching to take care of those doubleheaders and we play 20 of our last 22 games at home. At the same time, the Yankees will be on the road."

Equally optimistic is Leo Durocher, the Giants' voluble skipper who insists his team will catch the Dodgers again.

Americans Far Today's Radio Program Back In Field

St. Anne's-on-Sea, England, (AP)—British and Empire golfers easily staved off a weak challenge by five Americans yesterday in the British Open championship at Fred Daly, English Ryder Cupper, carved one stroke off the course record.

After two days of qualifying, the tournament got under way in earnest over the 6,647-yard Royal Lytham and St. Anne's course with 96 players seeking the prize.

Two newcomers to British golf, Willie Goggin of Montclair, N. J., and Jimmy Hines of Chicago, were the closest to Daly, who notched a 67, one stroke under the existing course record.

Seventh Goggin leads the U. S. forces with a 71, and is seventh after the first round. Hines, who couldn't get his irons working properly, carded a 73.

Another stroke behind him came two veterans of golf on both sides of the Atlantic, Gene Sarazen of Germantown, N. Y., and Willie Hunter of Los Angeles.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, only U. S. amateur left in the tourney, came in with a 75.

The field faces another 18 holes today and the top 50 then will battle it out Friday in the 36 holes finale.

Right behind Daly came 22-year-old Peter Thomson, an Australian pro, with a 68 and one stroke farther back was South Africa's Bobby Locke, the favorite.

Tucker's Club Plays

Tucker's Chevrolet, an entry in the Monroe County Softball League, will play a Washington, N. J. team on the latter's home grounds today, at 6:30 p.m. Tucker's squad is scheduled to leave the Colonial Diner at 5:45.

Blessing Of Lake Takes Place At Promised Land

Several hundred worshippers gathered at Promised Land on Sunday afternoon to witness the traditional blessing of the lake.

It was on this spot some 12 or 15 years ago that Holy Mass was offered for the first time in this section of the Pocono Mountains for some of the CCC boys who were then at camp. Later, for a period of one year, Catholics came to this spot to attend Holy Mass and to receive Holy Communion, kneeling under the shadow of the trees.

Under the spiritual guidance of Rt. Rev. Msgr. C. A. McHugh, V.F., pastor of the Pocono Catholic Missions, a church dedicated to Our Lady of Fatima was erected just one year ago. Each Sunday during the vacation season, the church is filled for the noon mass.

"Because of the influx of vacationists its was deemed most opportune to ask Almighty God to bless the waters of the lake and protect the people who would come to enjoy the benefits of this beautiful vacation center," Msgr. McHugh said.

The ceremony began by taking water from the lake which was then blessed. Following the blessing Father Vincent Harrity proceeded to the shore of the lake to bless the water, the bathers and the boats. This was followed by solemn benediction to the Most Blessed Sacrament. Rev. Father Edmund McMahon, C.P., was celebrant, Father Winfred Gunther, C.P., was deacon and Father Paulinus Gepp, C.P., was sub-deacon.

Msgr. McHugh presided at benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. He also delivered a short address of gratitude and appreciation, thanking those who cooperation made the ceremony possible—in particular E. C. Pyle, district forester, A. W. Lucky, forest ranger, Mr. and Mrs. John Mazza, concessionaires at the lake.

Automobile Demolished; Driver Unhurt

A 1937 model automobile was demolished at 6:30 a.m. yesterday when it skidded on wet paving for 200 feet and upset on its left side about five miles east of Brodheads-ville on Route 209.

Stanley Swartz of Buttonwood, Wilkes-Barre, walked away from the crash "with only a scratch," said troopers from Brodheads-ville barracks of State Police who investigated.

Traveling toward Stroudsburg, Swartz told police a truck loomed before him suddenly and he swerved to the right of the road to avoid a crash then skidded diagonally across the highway and turned over. No charges were preferred. Swartz' car was valued at $150.
